● No.65 Temple Sankakuji (Shikoku-chuō City / F-4)
The temple is at the top of the mountain (elev. 450 m) and it's name,"the triangular temple,"originates from the triangular goma (fire ritual) altar used by Kōbō Daishi to exterminate a troublesome ghost which lived in this area.

● The legend of Emon Saburō
Emon was a greedy, wealthy man of this area who mistreated Kōkai and was punished. To seek forgiveness Emon went in search on Kōkai around Shikoku eventually meeting him near Shōsanji (No. 12). Emon is believed to the forefather of the Shikoku pilgrimage.

● Jō no Fuchi Park (Matsuyama City / C-5)
In order to stop a famine in the area, Kūkai struck his staff at a spot here, and water came gushing up forming a pond. The local people enshrined a statue of him, and the surrounding area has now become a park.

● Pilgrim path (Uchiko Town / C-5)
This is the path that pilgrims take along the Oda River in Uchiko village. One pilgrim is hurriedly on his way to No. 44 Temple, Daihōji and the other is taking a break at a small hut.

● No.38 Kongōfukuji (Tosashimizu City / D-8)
It is believed that your wish will come true if you pat the head of the Daishi turtle on the temple grounds. Most visitors come to Cape Ashizuri to experience the tropical atmosphere and enjoy the hot springs.

● The landscape of Kagawa (Mitoyo City / F-3)
Upon entering Kagawa prefecture, you cannot miss seeing a triangular-shaped small mountain called Sanuki Fuji in the distance. It is only a short distance now until you reach the goal of No. 88, Ōkuboji.

● No.75 Zentsūji Temple (Zentsūji City / F-3)
Zentsūji Temple is the birth place of Kūkai (Kōbō Daishi.) and Zentsūji City has developed to meet the needs of visitors to this site. Along with Kongōbuji on Mt. Kōya (Wakayama prefecture) and Tōji temple in Kyoto, it is one of the three most important sites related to Kōbō Daishi.

● No.82 Negoroji (Takamatsu City / G-3)
The forests around this temple are popular among visitors because of the different colors and shades seen throughout the year especially during the fall. At the edge of the temple parking lot there is a large statue of a fierce-looking ushi-oni (cow-devil).

● No.88 Ōkuboji Temple (Sanuki City / H-3)
This temple is the last one along the Shikoku pilgrimage route and many pilgrims leave their staff (the symbol of Kōbō Daishi) here feeling that its role is complete. The fall colors seen here are beautiful.

(Sanuki City/H-3)

● Maeyama Ohenro Kōryū Salon
(Pilgrim Community Center / Museum)
This facility is located between Temple 87, Nagaoji and Temple 88, Ōkuboji and has a large, display room for pilgrim-related materials and another room where one can spend time relaxing and talking with other pilgrims. The excellent exhibition of historical materials allows one to fully understand the culture of the Shikoku pilgrimage. It is a wonderful place for all people to visit. An English brochure is available.

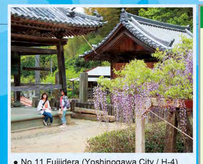
● No.37 Iwamotoji (Shimanto Town / D-7)
On the ceiling of the Main Hall, 575 different pictures can be seen. Regardless of whether one likes Western or Eastern art, this temple is definitely worth a visit.

● Urado Bay boat crossing (Kochi City / F-6)
In about five minutes a small ferry takes people, bicycles, and motorbikes (under 125cc) between Tanezaki and Kajigaura boarding docks, a distance of 600 meters, for free.

● Godaisan and Makino Botanical Garden (Kochi City / F-6)
Close to the town is Chikurinji (No.31), which has an exquisite garden and impressive treasure building. Next door is a botanical garden built in honor of Dr. Tomitarō Makino, a botanist from Kochi prefecture.

● Kabukabana (Muroto City / H-6)
This is a point between temples Yakuōji (No.23) and Hotsumisakiji (No.24) where there two large rocks called Meotoiwa (couple [man and woman] rock) connected together by a large rope. This is a good spot to take a break.

● Henrokorogashi (Yoshinogawa City / H-4)
This term means "a place for pilgrims to fall down" and there are various sections of the pilgrimage route, for example, between Fujidera (No. 11) and Shōsanji (No. 12), which are steep and potentially treacherous.



● No.11 Fujidera (Yoshinogawa City / H-4)
The name of this temple means "a well of wisteria" and every year from late April to early May, one can see various shades of purple wisteria hanging from the trellises.

● Saba Daishi
(No. 4 Bekkaku temple)(Kaiyo Town / H-5)
This name in transporting mackerel on his horse. The man refused to give Kūkai a fish, and as a result, his horse fell sick, but the man realized his inappropriate action and sought repentance.

● Kawashima-bashi and Zennyōji-tō
(Yoshinogawa City / H-4)
No one has lived on the island of Zennyōji for over an hundred years, but pilgrims must still cross over it and the narrow, concrete Kawashima bridge to get to Temple 11.

● Bussoku-seki (No. 2 Gokurakuji) (Naruto City / I-3)
These "stone footprints of the Buddha" found at numerous sacred sites in Japan became an object of worship before the days when Buddhist statues were constructed.

Each prefecture has been given a Buddhist dojo (place of spiritual training) name.
